

Justin Bieber goes racing in Atlanta

2:26 pm December 6, 2011, by Jennifer Brett

AJC.com (Atlanta Journal-Constitution)

Justin Bieber's back in Atlanta, the town he sort of, kind of calls home.

“Glad to be back spending time in ATL with friends,” he tweeted Monday. “This city is my 2nd home.”

Although the teen performer has been besieged on tour stops around the world, Atlanta leaves him alone for the most part. During his last trip home he and gal pal Selena Gomez were able to dine at Chops without causing a panic, for example.

Monday night Bieber and some buddies hit Andretti Indoor Karting & Games in Roswell and spent a couple of hours racing, playing video games and just being kids.

The folks at Andretti say he handled himself well behind the wheel, and posted the photo above showing Biebs, center, all tricked out in his racing gear.

- Jennifer Brett/The Buzz/jbrett@ajc.com

<http://blogs.ajc.com/the-buzz/2011/12/06/justin-bieber-goes-racing-in-atlanta/>